DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Durman et al (US 6013052). Durman discloses a catheter actuation device comprising a handle 14 for use with a deflectable shaft 12 having a manually positionable control mechanism 18, and a counterforce mechanism 30 that reduces a deflection force.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3763

4. Claims 2-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Falwell et al (US 5944690) in view of Durman. Falwell discloses a slidable control mechanism for a steerable catheter comprising a handle assembly 14 for a bidirectional shaft 16 comprising a manually positionable control mechanism including a slider 34, a pair of pull wires 18, 20, and a rotatable pulley 62.

5. Claim 2 differs from Falwell in calling for a counterforce mechanism. Durman teaches a counterforce mechanism 30 that reduces the amount of physician-generated actuation force required to drive the steering mechanism so that the physician can more accurately position the distal tip of the catheter (Col. 5, lines 15-25). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of invention to modify the device of Falwell to include a counterforce spring as taught by Durman so that the physician can accurately position the distal end of the catheter.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 7-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
